Tiptoeing softly through the corridors of the hospital the firemen arranged two lines of hose under the wards in which lay sleeping the crippled children, and fought the flames that threatened the entire ward, so quietly that none of the children were awakened.

The firemen were notifed over the phone and acting on the request of the hospital physicians the firemen went to the building without clanging a bell or blowing a whistle.

Forty-one persons were saved from death in the tenement fire. Thomas While, 23 years old, lost his life in an attempt to save his fiance, who, he thought, was perishing in the flames although she had been rescued by a policeman. The firemen carried the occupants of the building to the roofs of adjoining buildings, over ladders. The fire was of incendiary origin, it is believed.

WOMAN'S CORPS TO BE ORGANIZED

At an important meeting of Elias Howe, Jr., Post, G. A. R., held last evening, it was announced that a Woman's Relief Corps will be formally organized next Thursday afternoon, on which occasion the department officers will be present. Commander E. L. Ruggles has taken a great interest in the new organization, for which 30 names have already been secured.

The post voted to invite the local companies of the Coast Artillery Corps to attend the annual memorial services, to be held at Christ Episcopai church the Sunday before Memorial day. The post will hold a social session on the last Thursday of this month to which all the members and their sons will be invited. During the evening remarks were made by Henry Hurd, A. S. Hunt, E. P. Elisworth and C. E. Moore on their recollections at Chancellorsville. Howe, Jr., Post, G. A. R., held last C. E. Moore on their recollections at Chancellorsville.

POLLUTION OF TROUT STREAMS. Hartford, April 2.—A bill to prohibit the putting of sawdust and shavings into trout waters attracted some at tention yesterday before the committee on fish and game. ed its enactment again.

Representative John Buckley of Union objected to the bill in behalf of sawmill owners. So did O. A. Hiscox of Woodbury, a mill owner, who declared that trout were even caught within ten feet of his water wheel.

Representative Stoddard of Litchfield also opposed the bill. Judge Reed of Tolland county spoke against the bill and said he didn't believe the mills hurt fishing any.

In executive session later the committee voted to report adversely.

"The Pianophiends." Probably the most striking vaude-ville act ever presented for the amuse-ment of vaudeville patrons is the lat-est production by Jesse L. Lasky, en-titled "The Planophiends," which head Poll's bill next week.

In the scenic setting of an elaborate plano salesroom on Fifth avenue, New York, four clerks and a department manager are discovered killing time in the absence of customers, by playing on five planos at the same time.

on five planos at the same time.

A stirring ragtime number is played and when it is finished four young 'adies' dressed in the height of fashlon walk into the store. In song they announce they are on a shopping tour and have dropped in to buy a plano. Walted upon by the four clerks, who in the midst of their song play on various planos, an octette number is gone through, which in originality and tunefulness rivals the famous Florodora Sextette.

The quartette of stunning girls in The Pianophiends are said to be the prettiest in vaudeville. There can be no doubt that in presenting The Plano-phiends, Mr. Lasky has not spared expense in giving vaudeville its most novel and elaborate act.

Next week's bill will be exceptionally fine throughout. A big feature will be Edwina Barry & Co., in the new hit, "The Home Breaker," written by Jimmy Barry. The Long Acre Four, the best singing quartet in vaudeville will be with us next week. A brilliant feature will be the European favorites, The Josettis and Liliputian troupe, in acrobatic and risley work. Rastus Brown, a colored boy, who sure can dance and sing; Pealson, Goldie and Lee, clever harmonists and character singers and comedians; Wood Bros, those famous Irish athletes, in sensational double flying ring work, and motion picture novelties will complete the

SOCIAL PERSONAI

Miss Jessie S. Wootton, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Frank M. Wootton, of No. 149 Shelton street, was tendered a surprise and linen shower last evening by a number of her friends comprising the present as well as some of the former members of the Sunday school class in Park Street Congregational church of which Mrs. Geo. H. Sanford is the teacher. She received a number of beautiful and useful gifts from those present as well as some who could not come. The evening was pleasantly passed with various games after which refreshments were served, the party was chaperoned by Mrs. Geo. A. Sanford and Mrs. Mary Preston, the others present were: Mrs. Marguerite Lewis, the Misses Clara and Fay Preston, Helen Gerrish, Ruth Brown, Alene Ayres, Mattle Mallinson, Agnes Thomas, Gladys Beardsley, Anna Sanger, and Bertha Graves of Milford. Miss Wootton is to be married the latter part of the month to Mr. C. E. Bloss, the popular clerk at the Noble ayenue drug store of H. L. Benze.

PLEASURE TO MANY

"Fluffy Ruffles," as played by Hatite Williams, last night, at Smith's could not be called an extraordinary per-formance. Neither did the play, which formance. Neither did the play, which bears the name, rise to a very high mark. Yet it unquestionably gave pleasure to a large audience, in which was an unusually large number of young people. The players were beautifully costumed, the settings were pretty and the thing was well staged. The music was not extraordinarily catchy, however, and the singers lacked voice, though they had manner.
